1	Prologue It was August when we spent a week with our                      grandma. It was Joey then, not Joe: Joey Dowdel, and my                      sister was Mary Alice. In our first visits we were still just                      kids, so we could hardly see her town because of                      Grandma. She was so big, and the town was so small. She                      was so old too, or so we thought – old as the hills. And                      tough? She was tough as an old boot, or so we thought. As                      the years went by, though, Mary Alice and I grew up, and                      though Grandma never changed, we'd seem *...
