

Make Connections

Name your favorite setting in the book. Why do you like the setting? How does noticing the setting help you as a reader?

Make Connections

What was the problem that you read about today? Who do you know that might have had the same problem?

Make Connections

Make a Venn Diagram comparing the ways you are similar to and different from the main character.

Make Connections

How does making connections help you as a reader?

Make Connections

Give an example of a connection that is meaningful and one that is not meaningful. Explain why meaningful connections are better.

Make Connections

What did you learn while reading today? How does this information connect to something you already knew?

Make Connections

What did you dislike about the book you read today? Why did you dislike that part?

Make Connections

Use 10 words or less to tell why making connections is a smart strategy to use while reading.

Make Connections

Name the 3 types of connections you can make while reading.

Make Connections

Name two characters in the book you read. How are they similar to one another? How are they different?

Make Connections

What did you already know about the story that helped you as a reader?

Make Connections

Have you heard another version of the story that you read today? Tell how the versions are the same and different.

Make Connections

Think about the book you read today. Which character did you like most? Why?

Make Connections

Think about the way the problem in your book was solved. Would you have solved the problem in the same way? Why or why not?

Make Connections

Make a text-to-text connection. What other books does this story remind you of? Why?

Make Connections

Make a text-to-self connection. What do you have in common with this story? Why is your connection helpful?

Make Connections

Make a text-to-world connection. What did the book teach you about the real world?

Make Connections

Would you like to be friends with the main character? Why or why not?

